Welcome to the Writing Centre

Want to enhance your ability to produce effective academic and professional writing? Take advantage of our writing support programming.

We are here to support your growth and development as a writer. Come to the Writing Centre to work on your reading, writing, speaking and thinking skills.

We are part of the Writing Department in the Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies, which is responsible for instruction and scholarship in writing.

Writing is a crucial part of learning, a fact which is reflected in the heavy emphasis placed on academic writing in most LA&PS courses.

Please note we cannot correct or edit your work. Our focus is to help you acquire the tools to be a strong and independent writer.

We can also support you in brainstorming ways to improve your writing and help you implement them.

Please note: Our focus is on the development of student writers - not on the perfection of student writing assignments. We do not correct student work. Instead, we highlight opportunities for improving a piece of writing with students. We do so in ways that support students' development as independent thinkers, writers and proofreaders.

Cancellation Policy: We require three hours notice for cancellation although exceptions are made for emergencies. Students who have had three no-shows or late cancellations in a term may be blocked from booking additional one-to-one writing support appointments.
